THE WORLD-Spectator

Reasons to shop local this Christmas!

Your local businesses need you more than ever, and there is still time to shop local for Christmas! And there are some great reasons to shop locally this Christmas season:

1 Shopping locally supports the wonderful people who run our local businesses, the wonderful people they employ, the wonderful people they donate to, and the wonderful people they support with their local taxes! One of the many benefits to having great businesses in your town, besides making your life more pleasant by enjoying the services of those stores and restaurants, is they carry much of the burden of taxation in small communities, making your life more affordable by keeping your property taxes lower than they would be otherwise.

Reasons to shop local this Christmas!

3 Money spent locally has a compounding effect within the local economy. If you spend $100 locally it circulates on average seven times before leaving the community, so you are supporting more than one local business when you shop locally! When local businesses support one another, this effect is compounded.

4 Shopping locally means shopping safely this year. Staying within the local area, avoiding trips to the city, means you are doing yourself and your family and friends a favor by not travelling to areas where Covid-19 prevalence is higher. Your local businesses are working hard to keep you as safe as possible!

Happy Holidays!

Last-Minute Christmas Gift Guide

Reasons to shop local this Christmas!

5 Your local businesses provide service second to none, and have adapted to find ways to serve you safely through the Covid-19 pandemic. Your local businesses are always just a phone call or a click away and are always happy to serve you. Manitoba businesses can usually help you over the phone and with curbside pickup due to the restrictions in Manitoba right now. In Saskatchewan our businesses are not operating under the same restrictions but can always help you over the phone, by email, through facebook or however you want to contact them. I have to admit Kara and I bought some electronics when we had to be in Regina for a day recently—we called Glasser's and ordered a couple of items that will be under the Christmas tree this year.

'I'm maxed out'—looking beyond RRSPs

For years, you've invested in a Registered Retirement Savings Plan (RRSP)—good for you, a RRSP is the best tax-saving, income-building investment vehicle for most Canadians. And to get the most in immediate tax savings and to maximize the potential long-term growth of your RRSPs, you always make your maximum allowable contribution each taxation year.

But with all of that taken care of, what do you do now? Let's look at money-saving and financial growth options beyond your RRSP.

Contribute to investments held in a Tax-Free Savings Account (TFSA)

It complements your RRSP because investments within a TFSA grow tax-free. You can currently contribute up to $6,000 when you dispose of them. As well, dividends from most Canadian corporations are eligible for the dividend tax credit.

Pay down debt

It's a fact: Simply paying down debt delivers a risk-free, after-tax return which may be comparable to many investments. Start with costly, high-interest credit card debt and then pay down non-deductible debt such as your home mortgage—a single prepayment could save hundreds, even thousands of dollars in interest payments.

For parents and grandparents

Establish and contribute to a Registered Education Savings Plan (RESP) for your children or grandchildren. An RESP is the most effective way to create an education fund that grows to offset the future cost of education.

For (some) business owners

It can make sense to build a retirement investment portfolio inside your company instead of paying out that corporate income to a shareholder. The company can also fund an individual Pension Plan (IPP), which has the potential for greater tax-assisted savings than through RRSPs or Defined Contribution pension plans.

Be aware, however, that these business-related options require careful planning and the guidance of financial and legal professionals.

There are tax and income-building advantages and disadvantages to each of these "beyond RRSP" options. You need to look at them in relation to your overall tax situation and financial objectives. Your professional advisor can help you make the right decisions for your unique situation.

in new money to a TFSA each year and get your contributions and accumulated income out at any time, for any purpose, tax-free. However, there is no deduction against your taxable income for TFSA contributions.

Add to your non-registered investments

With your RRSP and TFSA topped up, consider adding your tax refund to your non-registered investments. The most tax-efficient strategy is to hold your fixed-income investments in a RRSP or TFSA, and stocks and equity mutual funds in a non-registered account (to the extent your investments exceed your RRSP and TFSA contribution room). This is because RRSP withdrawals are included in your taxable income in the year of the withdrawal and are taxed at your marginal tax rate, but stocks and equity mutual funds held in a non-registered account are taxed at a more favourable capital gains inclusion rate
