TAKE TIME TO REMEMBER ON NOVEMBER 11

This photo shows the dedication of the Moosomin Cenotaph in 1924—93 years ago. Several buildings in this photo still exist, including the telephone office at left, the house across the street from it which is now being restored, and the Land Titles Building at right, which is now Osman and Company Law Office. Note the dome skylight on the roof of the Land Titles Building and the people watching the dedication ceremony from the roof. The tower of the original Presbyterian Church, later the Catholic Church, can be seen through the trees at centre-right, a block east along Broadway. A huge crowd attended the dedication of the Cenotaph, which was originally dedicated to those who perished in the Great War, which we now know as the First World War. The names of those who died in the Second World War were later added.
